- It's very impressive. The building is beautiful, the smell of lacquer was unique, and I was thrilled. I will come again when I grow up.
- I felt a sense of quality and hospitality that I have never felt before from the tea service at Sasunoma. I think it is a good service.
- Looking at the historic buildings, I developed an interest in them. Next time, I would like to visit after doing some more homework.
- All of the staff members were wearing costumes of the Ryukyu Kingdom era or similar attire based on traditional customs. They blended into the atmosphere of this place, and that was good. In particular, the senior men looked great in their black costumes, giving off a sense of refinement.
